Special thanks to Steve Lawson for creating the Shelsi Sentinel website so quickly in the beginning to keep family and friends apprised of her condition—and then for the hundreds of hours spent keeping it current.

This book was a collaborative effort culminating in the ultimate gift; a new chance for life and love For two precious souls just starting their life together

May the light of this story bring hope to those just starting a similar journey, and comfort to those whose loved one lost a battle with cancer.

A Family's Journey Through Cancer

Compiled from a website created after diagnosis in January 2007 to keep family and friends updated, and from blogs, guestbook messages and pictures, all revealing a character building passage into faith.
